What's new for the 2024 GCSE exams?

The 2024 GCSE exams will be the first to be based on the new GCSE curriculum. This means that there will be some changes to the content and format of the exams.

The most significant change is that the exams will be linear. This means that you will sit all of your exams at the end of the course, rather than in modules throughout the year. This will give you more time to prepare for the exams, but it will also mean that you need to be more organized and disciplined in your revision.

Other changes to the GCSE exams include:

- A greater emphasis on problem-solving and critical thinking skills
- More focus on content that is relevant to the real world
- The of new assessment methods, such as online exams and project work
