One of the highlights of Seoul Geumjegwansik is its focus on interactive learning and hands-on activities. Children can participate in a wide range of activities, such as learning to make traditional Korean crafts, playing traditional Korean games, and dressing up in traditional Korean clothing.

In the "Crafts Zone," children can learn the art of Korean paper folding, or origami. They can create their own unique origami creations, such as cranes, flowers, and animals. In the "Games Zone," children can play traditional Korean games, such as yut nori (a Korean board game) and tuho (a Korean archery game).

In the "Dress-Up Zone," children can dress up in traditional Korean clothing, such as the hanbok. They can learn about the different parts of the hanbok and the significance of each piece.

Cultural Immersion and Language Learning

In addition to interactive activities, Seoul Geumjegwansik also provides children with opportunities for cultural immersion and language learning. Throughout the city, there are signs and labels in both Korean and English, helping children to learn basic Korean words and phrases.

There are also dedicated language learning zones where children can participate in Korean language classes. These classes are taught by experienced Korean teachers and are designed to be fun and engaging for children of all ages.

By immersing themselves in Korean culture and language, children can gain a deeper understanding of Korean society and history. They can learn about the customs, traditions, and values of the Korean people.
