Volume II of the Special Counsel's Report

Volume II of the Special Counsel's report focuses on the Russian government's efforts to interfere in the 2024 presidential election. The report provides a detailed account of the Russian government's planning and execution of its interference campaign, and it identifies the individuals and entities involved in the campaign.

The report finds that the Russian government began planning its interference campaign in early 2023. The campaign was led by the Russian military intelligence agency, the GRU, and it was executed by a variety of Russian government agencies and individuals.

The Russian government's interference campaign used a variety of methods to target the 2024 presidential election. These methods included:

- Hacking into the computer systems of the Democratic National Committee and the Clinton campaign
- Spreading disinformation and propaganda through social media and other online platforms
- Supporting third-party candidates, such as Jill Stein and Gary Johnson
- Attempting to influence the outcome of the election through direct contact with campaign officials

The Russian government's interference campaign was successful in influencing the outcome of the election. The report finds that Russia's interference "had a material impact on the election" and that it "likely contributed to Donald Trump's victory."
